The Hanging Gardens of Babylon

King Nebuchadnezzar wanted to make Babylon the most glorious city in the world. He also married one of the most beautiful women in the world. She was from Media, a beautiful land surrounded by green hills and valleys. She became homesick in Babylon, so the king decided to build a hill for her. It was likely a series of terraces stacked on top of one another. They were filled with flowering plants and tall trees. His wife could walk in the shade of the trees and admire the breathtaking beauty of the gardens. The towering gardens could be seen from miles away and looked as if they were floating in the air. Maybe that is why they were called “the Hanging Gardens.”
